Dear Prime Minister Berlusconi,

As you prepare for next week's G8 Summit, I write on behalf of the White Ribbon Alliance for Safe Motherhood's global membership – which includes thousands of individuals and organizations spanning 140 countries – to express the importance of investing in health and women with the specific goal of preventing maternal death and disability.

The statistics remain shocking – each year more than half a million women lose their lives needlessly in pregnancy and childbirth due to lack of basic health care, and more than half of Africa's women give birth without a trained health care provider. As you know, the commitment to reduce maternal mortality by 75%, as outlined in Millennium Development Goal 5, remains grossly off track. It is shameful that maternal death stands as the greatest inequity of the 21st century when 80% of these deaths are preventable. The critical investment needed is in health workers and health systems able to deliver basic and emergency care.

You, and the other leaders of the G8, have the power to take the proper action to reduce maternal mortality around the world. Indeed, last year's G8 Summit was a real breakthrough in that you recognized the need to boost your efforts to tackle Millennium Development Goal 5 by addressing the critical shortage of health workers in the developing world. Keep this promise to the women of the world and lead by example.

As the host of this year's G8, we ask that you commit to urgent action: accept the High Level Task Force on Innovative Financing's recommendations that will provide long-term sustainable and additional funding of at least $10 billion for health systems strengthening; pledge to increase the number of births attended by a skilled birth attendant by an extra 120 million by 2012; and adopt the Global Consensus on Maternal and Newborn Health and commit to supporting evidence-based, cost effective solutions to reduce maternal mortality.

There are many competing priorities and crises to address at this G8 and you bear much weight on your shoulders. But remember – women lie at the economic heart of the developing world. By saving a mother, you are also saving her child and reducing the likelihood of her family, and those in her community, from living in poverty. Healthy mothers build healthy families, healthy communities and contribute to a healthy economy. We thank you again for what you have done and continue to do in this regard. We look forward to knowing the significant steps you have taken to follow through on what must be done to prevent women from dying needlessly in pregnancy and childbirth. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Theresa Shaver, President/Executive Director
